FIFTEEN CENTS

OK 8.8% hike in ACHS budget

The Board of Education of Antioch Community High School (ACHS), at its last regular meeting on Aug. 16, approved the proposed 1984-85 that totaled just under $6.5 million.

This is an increase of 8.8 percent over the 1983-84 budget.

Indicative of the increase is the total cost of the education fund, which actually represents 70 percent of the total budget. Those figures are up 8.3 percent over last year.

One of the costs missing from this year's budget is the usual bond and interest payments since the final debt was paid in full by the end of the last fiscal year.

The board also approved the contracts of Cheryl Cox, new English teacher; Elise Mourning, new social studies instructor and Michael Shehorn also to be new English and speech teacher.

The approval of these contracts makes the ACHS staff complete at the start of the school year.

Director of Curriculum Gary Allen told the board that arrangements had been completed for the high school to offer the course "The Exceptional Child" to the staff. The class will start on Wednesday, Aug. 29 in the late afternoon.

Tuition for this class was set at $150 for the three-credit hour graduate course for non-district employees.

Knolls' residents' anger about runoff growing

by GLORIA DAVIS

David Beno from the Environmental Protection Agency was unable to be present at the planned meeting on Aug. 16 concerning environmental ramifications of the water runoff coming from property in Salem Wis., causing property damage in Oakwood Knolls and pollution of Cross Lake.

But many angry Knolls residents were there to reaffirm their intention to see that someone takes care of repairing all damages and of the clearing of their lake.

Although there has previously been problems with cross-state drainage from farm fields in that area, the current serious problem seems to stem from the dumping of excess dirt etc. from the Salem Sewer construction onto property leased from the Benedictine Bros. by Woody Kelly.

The people from the Knolls contend that the area that was used for the dumping had been a natural water retention area and when Nelson Construction Co., Inc. did the dumping the lay of the land was changed, causing a constant water runoff across the state line.

"The area used to be an indentation now they have filled it and put top soil over it, making it level and causing the constant runoff," said Knolls Assn. President Bud Hohns.

Nelson contracted to lease the dumping area from Kelly who has a horse farm in the area.

After several meetings with Illinois and Wisconsin officials, Nelson constructed a berm to rectify the runoff problem but Antioch Mayor Ray Toft and Hohns are not sure that this will solve the problem.

Hohns said, "We won't know if the berm will work until the spring rains come."

Salem Township Sup. Dick Hautzinger said that the Salem Utility Dist.'s contracts with companies building the sewer state that the construction company and the owner of the land where the dumping is done are responsible for any problems resulting from such dumping.

The EPA is looking into the question and a new meeting date with that agency's participation is in the offing.

Meanwhile the 400 residents of Oakwood Knolls are bound and determined to have the lake returned to its former clarity and something done about property damage.

"I used to toss coins off of my 60 foot pier and be able to tell you their denomination when they landed in the sand, now there is more than an inch of silt on the bottom of the lake," said Chuck Miller, who lives on the lake.

Rotarians race

Thelen, Miller, Lions take checkered flags

Despite the fact that most of Friday, Aug. 17, looked like the rain that had cancelled the Antioch Rotary's Scholarship Benefit race two weeks earlier might wash the event out again, the Rotarians lucked out.

To the cheers of the watching crowd, Rev. Chuck Miller sped across the finish line to beat Rev. Steve Williams in the Holy Terror Race.

Thelen's Joe Torri did it again, just like last year, as he took top honors in the big truck race, winning over Bassett Readymix and HOD.

Although this was a Rotary event, Antioch Lions Club President "Miserable" (Paul)

Maginot creamed the Rotary's top dog, "Mild Mannered" (Wayne) Parthun. Just goes to prove that the guys in the white hats don't always win!

"Terrible Theresa" Tossava was the queen of the powder puff racers and the gals did it again when Colleen DeVries, Antioch Reporter editor, walked away with the media race, leaving Lakeland Regional Editor Mike Babicz in the dust to come in third out of five racers.

The McHenry Rotary took the checkered flag in the Rotary race.

After Jack Thelen was called off of the track, Jim Bruski won the Antioch Rotary race.

NAU's sanity hearing reset for Aug. 23

The sanity hearing of Ralph Nau, 29, in connection with charges that he murdered his stepbrother Dennis Gerkin, 8, were postponed.

According to Assistant State's Atty. Randall Stewart, who is handling the prosecution of the case, psychiatrist Dr. Ronald Barron has not completed his examination of Nau.

Stewart said that the sanity hearing has been reset for Thursday, Aug. 23.

Meanwhile Nau is still being held in Lake County jail. Presently, the public defender on the case is Kevin Milner.

Nau has been charged with killing his stepbrother with an ax, "so that he could be with his dead mother." Reportedly, Gerkin had not spoken for six years since his mother died.

His body was found by Lake County Sheriff's Deputies on Aug. 9 in a shallow grave on the Gerkin Egg Farm on Hunt Club Rd., owned by his father and stepmother, Kenneth and Shirley Gerkin.

5-year old victim of fatal crash

Joshua Hendricksen, 5, Bristol, was the victim of a fatal two-car crash at the intersection of Rte. 173 and Hunt Club Rd.

Phyllis Thayer, 18, reportedly ran the stop sign at the intersection while trying to turn onto Hunt Club Rd. from Rte. 173 and crashed into another car driven by Susan Beake, 34, Gurnee.

The accident occurred at 7 a.m. on Aug. 14. Newport, Zion and Gurnee Rescue Squads took Beake, a passenger in her car, Thayer, and members of the Hendricksen family, Joshua, Karyn, 31, Leah, 2, to Victory and St. Therese hospitals.

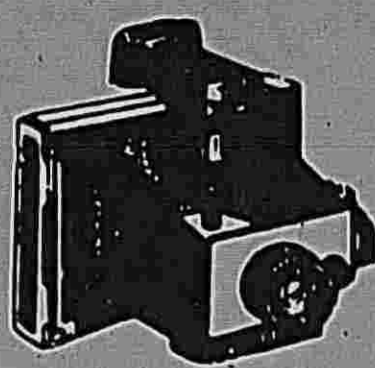

Thayer was given a ticket for ignoring the traffic sign.

Ask Dr. Sven

by Robert T. Sven B.S.D.D.S.

MOUTH BREATHING

Question: Can mouth breathing damage the gums and teeth in any way?

Answer: Mouth breathing is a common condition; some likely causes are enlarged tonsils or adenoids, allergy, obstructed nasal passages, habit, protruding front teeth or a poor bite. The practice can cause problems. For one thing, breathing in air through the mouth dries out gum tissue, especially that closest to the front. The gums need moisture to stay healthy; lack of it causes inflammation, and gum recession. This creates a diseased condition—increased dental decay, chalkiness of the teeth, and filling deterioration. Mouth breathing can also cause a narrowing and deepening of the palate, and can give the nose and middle face a pinched, tight look. To offset dryness, apply petroleum jelly to front teeth and gums at bedtime.

A mouth breather should be checked for allergy and other likely causes of dryness. Whatever the problem, it should be corrected promptly.

When I think about it Is patriotism outdated in this nuclear world?

by GLORIA DAVIS

There is supposed to be a real surge of patriotism growing by leaps and bounds in the United States. The crowds cheering the Olympic athletes, the waving of flags at the games and later at the ticker-tape parade in New York was one of the latest paramount examples.

It seems that the U.S. citizens who were patriotically depressed during the late 1960s by the inequities of Viet Nam and bamboozled by radical Iranian dictator during the Carter years, are suddenly proud to be Americans again.

Many attribute it all to the "I love a winner" syndrome, with the U.S. walking away with a record number of gold medals from the Olympic Games.

Of course this could be one of those chicken-egg things wherein one might ask did we cheer so loud because our athletes were winning or did our athletes win because of the strong backing they received?

Since many of those gold medal winners were really not considered gold calibre before the games, there may be something to the latter theory.

But what really is patriotism all about? It's got to be more than cheering and flag waving.

Here's what some well-known people think it is.

According to Bill Vaughn, "A real patriot is one who gets a traffic ticket and rejoices that the system works."

A quote from the Huntington Herald claims, "A loyal American is one who gets mad when an alien cusses the same institution he cusses."

If one were to be judged by word of mouth, Al Capone might have been considered one of our greatest Americans when he said,

"My rackets are run on strictly American lines and they are going to stay that way."

Mary Tyler Moore said, "There's one beneficial effect of going to Moscow, you'll come home waving the American flag with all your might."

According to Queen Elizabeth II, "True patriotism doesn't exclude an understanding of the patriotism of others."

And a wise Adlai Stevenson once said, "Do not regard critics as questionable patriots. What were Washington, Jefferson and Adams but profound critics of the colonial status quo."

But there are many who think the present definition of patriotism one which may contribute to the world's ruin.

Preserved Smith said, "No other factor in history, not even religion, has produced so many wars as has the clash of national egotisms sanctified by the word patriotism."

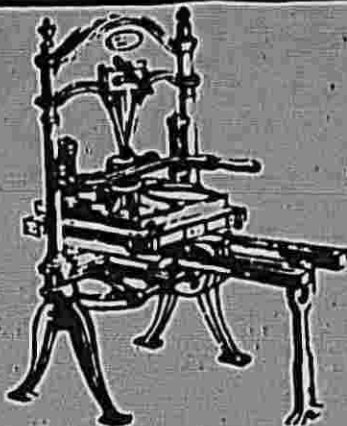

Gordon Allport claimed that many studies found a link between prejudice and patriotism.

Many anti-patriotic quotes have been attributed to George Bernard Shaw such as, "You'll never have a quiet world until you knock the patriotism out of the human race."

Oscar Wilde went further when he said "Patriotism is the virtue of the vicious."

And so many people got into the act with different versions of "My country right or wrong," that one may draw the conclusion that a true patriot is one who backs his country when its right and does something about changing things that are wrong, so the backing can be 100 percent.

But how possible are those changes? Maybe patriotism went out the door when the world ceased to be a simple place and the nuclear age came in and mandated survivalism.

FIFTY YEARS AGO: Aug. 23, 1934

Lake County's all-time drowning record of 23 in one season was equaled when a Chicago father drowned while trying to save his two-year-old daughter. Both drowned when the child went over the side of a boat they were riding in.

THIRTY YEARS AGO: Aug. 26, 1954

The plans of Frank Diamond, former bodyguard of Al Capone, to build homes and stores in Antioch came to a halt when he was a victim of a gangland murder in Chicago.

Paul Eckert, Jim McMillen, and Mike Haviland were some of the nine lettermen returning to the Antioch High School football squad.

George Borovicka won honors at the Illinois State Fair Antique and Sports Car Exhibit with his 1932 Lincoln and his 1953 Mercedes.

Antioch came in third in Chain O-Lakes Baseball League play.

Brookhaven National Laboratories in Long Island, N. Y. was installing the world's most powerful atom-smasher.

TEN YEARS AGO: Aug. 28, 1974

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

The village fathers are hoping that everyone will be patient with the slight inconvenience caused by the repairs going on on Lake St.

"You'll appreciate it when it's done!" they say.

The work is slated to be finished in a couple of weeks.

Happy Birthday to Tom Gutowski!

Wasn't it great to see Antioch swimmers take a second place in the tourney at the Lions Picnic!

Pat Center tells us that the swimmers are getting younger all the time.

"Years ago we used to have a lot of kids in their teens participating but now jobs and other activities have taken over," she said.

Pat added that all the swim teams in the area are having the same problem.

Mothers, be sure and take advantage of all the sales going on in the local stores for those early back to school clothes.

The damp evenings are already boding the coming of fall along with the end of most of the area's outdoor activities.

Somehow old Annie Mae just can't cotton to kids going back to school before the last summer holiday, Labor Day.

I guess that's how it is now-a-days. But don't worry kids, the sooner you're back in school now, the sooner you're out next spring.

Class of 1934 holds reunion

Fifty years ago in early June, Antioch Township High School graduated 66 seniors, the school's largest graduating class to that date and for 10 years afterwards. The Commencement Address was given by Dr. Preston Bradley of Chicago, well-known to many for his inspiring sermons which could be heard weekly on the radio.

On June 30, 1984, 24 members of this graduating class gathered at the Antioch Community House for a reunion. At mid-afternoon, a group of 12 class members met at the high school for a tour of the building, guided by Supt. Warren Polley. Needless to say, the original school building of the 1930's is quite lost in the subsequent additions, but can still be recognized by those who walked its halls 50 years ago.

At 5 p.m., the 1934 graduates, their spouses, friends and guest assembled in the banquet room the Country House. There were cries of recognition, or the question "Who are you?" as these people came together. Some hadn't seen each other since graduation.

Each graduate received a cardinal and gray name tag with a copy of his or her 1934 class photograph.

A buffet dinner was served. Harold Fennema, master of ceremonies, read messages from absent members and from Mr. Von Holwede, who resides in California. Guests also included two former teachers, Dr. Gerald Reed and Miss Cornelia Roberts, who recalled many events of 50 years ago. Supt. Polley and Mrs. Polley were also guests. Polley gave some interesting highlights of the 1984 school.

Class members came from Washington, California, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

The committee who arranged the reunion were Margaret Dibble/Masek, Sister Mary Patricia/Adele Miller, Howard Wells, Paul Nielsen, Paul Zeien and Harold Fennema. The committee met three times during the year in preparation.

The reunion was the fourth reunion the Class of 1934 has held. In the 50 years since graduation, 17 members of the class are deceased. The committee hopes to plan another reunion, perhaps in five years.

Church plans festival

The Lake Villa United Methodist Church is having its Fall Festival on Saturday, Sept. 15, on the church grounds on McKinley Ave., Lake Villa, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. This year promises to be different from previous years, mainly because of the elaborate plans being made for the Pet Parade and Show.

Ribbons will be awarded for the most obedient, the hairiest, the largest, the smallest, the best dressed and the best decorated cage or basket. If you are interested, call (312) 546-8590 after Aug. 27 and after 7 p.m. to register.

The auction at 11 a.m. should attract quite a few people.

Besides these two events, there will be a crafts booth, a plants and produce stand, a jewelry booth, a bake sale, games for the children, and, of course, food.

They were also charged later with entering the home of Meyer's parents and burglarizing it.

Two Florida men, accused of the stabbing death of Mark Meyer, 25, former Antioch resident, have been sentenced to a Florida State Penitentiary.

Kenneth Palmer, 18, pleaded guilty to charges of second degree murder, kidnapping, robbery and burglary and was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

According to Polk County, Fla. States Atty. Hardy Pickard, the parole commission has been abolished in the state of Florida and Palmer is expected to serve about 15 years of the 30-year sentence with no probationary period imposed afterwards.
